

Frequently Asked Questions

Answers to common questions about working with us

Getting Started

How do I access my dashboard?

You will receive an email address and a 6-digit access code from Great Creation Studios. Use these at the client login page to access your dashboard. Your code is hidden by default when you type it — click "Show Code" if you need to verify what you entered.

What happens if I forget my access code?

Contact Great Creation Studios directly. For security, access codes cannot be recovered through the portal. We will verify your identity and issue a new code.

Can other people on my team access the dashboard?

Access credentials are issued to individual authorized users. If you need additional team members to have access, contact Great Creation Studios and we will arrange separate credentials for each person.

Can I access my dashboard on mobile?

The dashboard works in any modern mobile browser, but it is designed for landscape orientation on larger screens. Annotation tools in particular work best on desktop or tablet. We cannot guarantee that all features will display correctly in portrait mode on smaller devices.

How long can I access my dashboard after my project is complete?

Your portal access remains active after your project is complete. You can continue to access your files, proofs, and documents for as long as your account is active. If you have any questions about your account status, reach out through the Communication tab.

Proofs & Design Feedback

---

How do I know when new proofs are available?

The Great Creation Studios team will notify you through the Communication tab when new proofs have been uploaded. You can also check the Proofs tab at any time to see what is available.

How many revisions do I get?

The number of revision rounds is agreed upon before your project begins and is included in your project quote. Each round is a single consolidated set of feedback — gather all your notes and submit them together through the annotation tools. If you need additional rounds beyond what was included, we will let you know the cost before proceeding. Details are in the Client Service Terms under Contracts.

What counts as one revision?

One revision is a complete set of changes submitted together. Whether you have 2 notes or 20, it counts as one round as long as they are submitted as a single batch. Sending individual changes across multiple days or messages may count as separate rounds.

Can I print a proof with my annotations?

Yes. Use your browser's print function (Ctrl+P or Cmd+P) while viewing a proof. The layout automatically adjusts to landscape and includes the proof with all your annotations and the comments panel.

What does it mean when it says someone is annotating?

When you see a pulsing indicator that the Great Creation Studios team is annotating, it means they are actively working on the same proof you are viewing. Your annotations will not interfere with theirs — both sets are saved separately and merged together.

Can I undo or remove my annotations?

Yes. Use the Select tool to click on any of your own annotations, then use the Delete button or the Undo button in the toolbar. You can only modify or remove your own annotations — annotations placed by the Great Creation Studios team can only be removed by them.

Communication

What are system messages?

Messages with a lavender background are generated automatically by the platform. They may include welcome messages, status updates, file push notifications, or triggered responses based on keywords. They are not sent by a person.

Can I delete or edit my messages?

Messages cannot be deleted or edited by clients. All communication is part of the permanent project record. If you sent something in error, send a follow-up message clarifying the correction.

What does it mean when a message is pinned?

Pinned messages are highlighted by the Great Creation Studios team to mark important information — things like deadlines, key decisions, or action items. They stay visible at the top of the chat for easy reference.

Documents & Resources

What do the document tags mean?

Standard documents (shown in copper) are shared terms that apply to all Great Creation Studios clients, such as the Terms of Service, Privacy Policy, and Client Service Terms. Client documents (shown in purple) are specific to your project, such as signed agreements or custom deliverables.

Where can I find my invoices?

Invoices appear in the Resource tab under the Invoices section. When a new invoice is issued, the team will notify you through the Communication tab. All amounts are in Canadian dollars (CAD).

Do I need to sign anything?

The standard legal and contract documents apply automatically when you use Great Creation Studios services — no signature is required. If a specific project requires a custom agreement, the team will provide it and walk you through the process.

Security & Privacy

Is my data secure?

Yes. Your project files are stored in an isolated directory that is only accessible through the portal. Document folders such as invoices, contracts, and legal files are served through secure endpoints — they cannot be accessed by guessing a URL or browsing directories. Full details are available in the Privacy Policy under Legal documents.

Can other clients see my files?

No. Each client has a completely separate and isolated storage directory. There is no way for one client to access another client's files, proofs, messages, or documents through the portal.

What happens to my data after my project ends?

Project files are retained according to the data retention schedule in the Privacy Policy. Completed deliverables are kept for three years, communication logs for three years, and financial records for seven years as required by Canadian tax law. You can request early deletion of non-essential data at any time.

Still have questions? Send a message through the Communication tab in your dashboard and the Great Creation Studios team will get back to you.
